

Business Intelligence Architect/Developer

Descriptions:

The role of the Business Intelligence Architect/ Developer will involve being part of the team to conceptualize, author and implement BI solutions. Responsibilities will include the analysis, design, development, implementation and support of BI solutions for P&C insurance that leverage the content of application data stores, or data repository's used to model and aggregate data from disparate corporate OLTP data sources.

The BI Architect/ Developer will interact with Business Analysts and business clients, diagnosing/analyzing business issues to develop an understanding of requirements for reporting or performance management solutions.

Responsibilities:

- Design, development and maintenance of Business Intelligence (BI) reporting elements including ad hoc and static reports, dashboards, scorecards and other reporting capabilities
- Technical Architecture and Documentation
- Collaboration with team members (Data Architect/ETL and Application Developers) on technical capabilities and components of BI tools and technologies
- Provide input into the strategic design and deployment of enterprise BI solutions
- Provide input into guidelines and best practices surrounding Business Intelligence
- Provide insights for better ways of maintaining, enhancing and documenting existing BI solutions
- Interact directly with clients and ensure their satisfaction

Qualifications:

- Extensive knowledge of Business Intelligence products & development tools
- Strong knowledge of Data Warehouse concepts and methodology
- Strong knowledge of ETL technologies and methodologies
- Strong knowledge of SQL Server, DB2 and Hyperion
- Strong knowledge of database query and design
- Knowledge of data analysis, programming technologies, QA concepts and techniques
- Strong knowledge of all aspects of ongoing support of BI operational environments
- Strong knowledge of data modeling: logical/physical models and dimensional data structures
- Knowledge of P&C data domain
- Post secondary education in computer science, information technology or information

Interested applicants should submit a résumé and detailed letter or e-mail outlining how their skills, abilities, and experience meet the requirements of this opportunity to:

Helena Ricci
Account Manager/Recruiter
www.futuretek.ca
info@futuretek.ca